

SS STEPHEN HOPKINS DALLAS / FORT WORTH CHAPTER

Named after the only United States Merchant Ship to sink a German Man-of-War in the Atlantic during World War II

One of our ongoing chapter objectives is enlightening the current generation about the role the Merchant Marine played in WWII.

We have reproduced the unforgettable picture story of the U.S. Maritime Service Training Station at Sheepshead Bay in Brooklyn during World War II. This 40-page booklet contains more than 160 photographs that illustrate the intensive training merchant seamen had to undergo.

Our chapter also published a memory book with first person stories of Merchant Mariners and Navy Armed Guard – more information available on our website below.
